Salem School Board, Administrators Ponder Whether To Give Final Exams

Should Salem school students be given final examinations in all their courses?

The Salem Board of Education and school administrators are involved in a thoughtful study of this question.

The pros and cons of final exams were thoroughly aired at a meeting of the board, together with Supt. of Schools E. S. Kerr and High School Principal Berman Ludwig last night at the home of Board member Robert Heddlston on Highland Ave.

The board directed Ludwig to draw up a proposed schedule of examinations together with a report on changes the tests would necessitate in the school program as it now stands.

Board President Alfred L. Fitch told Ludwig final exams could not be instituted this year, but if approved, will go into effect at the fall semester so students can begin preparing for them the first day of school.

Supt. Kerr opened the lengthy discussion with a review of the background on final exams.

He said past practice in education was to aim for "catalogue knowledge," where the student had to remember as many facts as possible. But a later growth in the number of newspapers and books available for the general public helped bring a change in this, he continued.

He said the newer standard is "classified knowledge," in which thinking, not a memorization of facts, is emphasized.

"THINKING — THE SOLUTION of problems — was found to be the important thing in education," Supt. Kerr went on.

"The best 'educated' were found not always to be the best thinkers," he continued.

Supt. Kerr cited a Chicago study made by a group of educators interested in the effects of "cramming" for exams.

A group of students was selected who "crammed" hard for difficult final examinations. Then two days later the group was given the same exams and made a "sorry mess" of them at that time, Supt. Kerr said.

He explained that when students are cramming for a single purpose — to pass an exam — most of what is learned is discharged with the experience of the exam and little is retained.

Time is also a factor in final exams, Supt. Kerr said. Until about 15 years ago, Salem devoted about a week at the end of each semester for final examinations, he re-

Ohio Releases Newly Chosen School Chief

Doubt Was Raised Over Hiring Man From Out Of State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Board of Education today released Harold S. Vincent from his contract to become state superintendent of public instruction on July 1. The vote was unanimous after board member Elliott Meyers explained attempts to keep Vincent. There was no indication how long it would take to get a new superintendent.

Along that line, Meyers told the board:

"It seems a shame that a lot of work that went into this is going to be lost."

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's chosen superintendent of public instruction, Harold S. Vincent, will be released from his contract today.

He asked for his release because of doubt raised over the legality of his appointment.

The Ohio Board of Education could find no way to hold him to his contract. A board spokesman said there was no choice but to release him.

Vincent will remain in his present post as school superintendent in Milwaukee. His salary there will be only a shade under the $25,000 a year he was scheduled to receive in the Ohio post.

Vincent, a former school official in Akron and Canton, was hired in November by the state school board to become superintendent July 1.

The question of the legality of Vincent's appointment centered on whether the state board should have appointed a "qualified elector" of the state of Ohio.

The state constitution requires the status of a qualified voter in an appointee to the governor's Cabinet. The question was: Does the same requirement apply to the school superintendent?

The superintendent, until the state school board arrived on the scene Jan. 1, 1956, was a member of the Cabinet. Now he is an employee of the board.

The board has been perturbed by Vincent's legal status for the last 10 days when the question of his eligibility was raised.

The board also adopted a com-

60 At Farm Meeting At United School

LISBON—Approximately 60 persons attended a Columbiana County Agricultural Council meeting at United School Monday evening.

Reilly Dougan, economics specialist at Ohio State University, was the principal speaker.

He compared farming methods of 1930 and 1955 in Columbiana County. Records show there is a decrease in the amount of land farmed in the county but an increase in production.

A panel discussion with Elden Groves of Salem as moderator was held following the talk.

Senators Study Mideast Plan

Joint Committee Works On Resolution

WASHINGTON (AP)—A joint Senate committee undertakes revision of President Eisenhower's Middle East resolution today with Republicans predicting its ultimate Senate adoption by a wide margin. The Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees completed hearings on the measure Monday.

Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California said he thinks the joint committee can agree by Wednesday night on a resolution acceptable to the administration, and that floor debate can start Monday.

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) said the resolution will be subjected to much criticism in formal Senate debate, "but when the showdown comes, I don't believe there will be more than 20 of the 96 Senate votes against it."

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.), in a separate interview, said many Democrats will be "forced" to support the resolution rather than reject the President's request in a critical period.

"But it will undergo substantial revision before it reaches the Senate floor to get it in better shape," Sparkman added.

As approved by the House, the resolution would authorize the President to use U. S. military forces to combat any overt Communist aggression in the Middle

Stock Market Rises After Slow Start

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market got off to a lower start, then went into a rally in early trading today after Monday's sharp break.

Gains ran to around $2 a share. Trading was so heavy that the high-speed ticker tape fell behind in reporting transactions on two occasions, by a minute when the market was losing ground, and by three minutes when the rally was under way.

Based on Associated Press averages, Monday's nosedive clipped about four billion dollars from the quoted value of all stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

The decline was generally described as purely technical. Brokers said the market was seeking a new low level that could prove attractive to buyers.

In the background, however, were a number of developments, which indicated a tightening up of the economy. Some brokers have been advising investors to proceed with caution.

Pretty Nurse Missing From Doctor's Yacht

OCRAOKE, N.C. (AP)—A physician whose pretty nurse disappeared from his anchored yacht waited anxiously today while Coast Guardsmen searched sea and shore for some trace of her.

Dr. James T. Dodge, 45, general practitioner of Trenton, N.J., said he thought high waves might have thrown her off the yacht's deck while he was asleep below decks.

Dr. Dodge and Mrs. Mary Ann Scales, 33, of Bordentown, N. J., his nurse for 12 years, had been on a Southern cruise for about a week "to get away from his practice." He said the 34-foot craft Mary N. II ran aground near here about 6:30 p.m. Saturday and after they refloated it they anchored in a channel because of poor visibility.

The doctor said he went below to sleep at about 8 p.m., but "Mrs. Scales said she wasn't

Cooperation In Keeping Peace Also Proposed

Russia Would Halt Arms Shipments If West Leaves Bases

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union today proposed that the Big Four cooperate in economic aid to the Middle East, maintain peace there by negotiations and otherwise keep hands off of the tension-racked area.

Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov told the Supreme Soviet, Russia's parliament, that the Kremlin government had transmitted such a six-point proposal in notes handed Monday night to the ambassadors of the United States, Britain and France.

Shepilov said in effect that the Soviet Union is ready to stop sending arms to the Middle East if the Western powers will do likewise and will abandon their military bases there.

The foreign minister said the most urgent Middle East question now was "the complete withdrawal of Israeli troops from Egyptian territory." He said his government also supports Egypt's "just demand for full compensation of the damage caused" by the British-French-Israeli invasion of Egypt.

Shepilov also lined his government up again with Cairo's demand that Egypt alone control and operate the Suez Canal. He said "law and justice are wholly on Egypt's side."

Shepilov said this six-point proposal had been made to the United States, Britain and France:

"1. The maintenance of peace in the Near and Middle East through settling disputed questions exclusively by peaceful means by negotiations.

"2. Noninterference in the internal affairs of the Near and Middle East; respect of the sovereignty and independence of these countries.

"3. Renounce any attempts to include these countries in military blocs with the participation of the great power (a direct slap at the Western-sponsored Baghdad Pact but not at the Arab League Alliance which Egypt has been promoting).

"4. The liquidation of foreign bases and the withdrawal of foreign troops from the territories of

Foes Of Mahoning Dam Plan Assault

WASHINGTON (AP)—Opponents of a proposed new dam on the West Branch of the Mahoning River in Ohio are planning a fresh assault on the project.

The opposition, working through the Upper Ohio Valley Assn., is sending witnesses here Friday to ask Congress to turn it down.

The organization's spokesmen, speaking largely for such Pennsylvania industries as steel and railroads, will testify before a Senate Public Works subcommittee headed by Sen. Kerr (D-Okla.).

They are being permitted to testify at the request of Sen. Martin (R-Pa.), senior Republican on the Public Works Committee.

Sen. Chavez (D-NM), chairman of the full committee, has indicated his approval of West Branch, a flood control measure for Portage County, Ohio, that also is designed to supply more water to the Mahoning River to industries in its valley.

The chief proponent of the project, Rep. Kirwan (D-Ohio) of Youngstown, calls it "the best project in the United States."

"Certainly it's going to pass," said Kirwan. "Congress passed it once and will pass it again."

Estimated cost of the West Branch project is $12,585,000.

USW To Elect Officers Today

McDonald Opposed On Issue Of Dues

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Members of the United Steelworkers elect a president today. For the first time in the union's 20-year history, the leadership is challenged.

The issue: dues.

Running against President David J. McDonald 54, is a Pittsburgh district steelworker opposed to a hike in dues from $3 to $5 monthly. He is Donald C. Rarick, 37, who works at the nearby Irvin works of U. S. Steel Corp.

USW members also are voting for other top officers, including district directors. In only a few instances are there any opponents for the slate led by McDonald, who succeeded to the presidency after the death in 1952 of Philip Murray.

Hague Unopposed

Howard R. Hague of Pittsburgh has no opposition for his job as vice president.

However, Secretary-Treasurer I. W. Abel of Pittsburgh is opposed by William Klug of Milwaukee, Wis. Klug is a member of Rarick's "Dues Protest Committee."

The committee was formed after a USW convention last fall hiked the dues. Rarick claimed there was no roll call vote. McDonald said the vote was fair and the raise stood.

The same convention hiked McDonald's pay $10,000 a year to its present level of $50,000. Salaries of the vice president and secretary-treasurer went from $25,000 to $35,000 annually.

Wants Increases Rescinded

Rarick says he wants those salary increases rescinded, along with lowering the dues.

Contract Awarded For Primary Ballots

EAST LIVERPOOL — The Wilson Printing House of East Liverpool was awarded a contract Monday night by the County Election Board to furnish ballots for the May 7 primaries on the basis of its low bids of $14 per 1,000 for party tickets and $18 per 1,000 for a combined ballot listing three proposed tax levies in East Liverpool.

The election board also awarded a contract to the Columbus Blank Book Co. of Columbus to furnish poll books for both the May primaries and the November general election on its low bid of $18.50 a precinct.

The board granted ballot places to 110 Republicans and 85 Democratic candidates who filed for the primaries before the deadline last Wednesday, with the proviso that they must have complied with state laws governing expense statements if they sought office in recent elections and that they must not have voted in the opposite party's primaries in the last four years.

Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk, pointed out that the board must check its records to determine if the candidates meet the law.

The section covering party affiliation says "No person shall be a candidate for nomination at a party primary if he voted as a member of a different political party at any primary election within the next preceding four calendar years."

Failure of a candidate to file a sworn statement of campaign expenditures after an election bars him from being a candidate again for at least five years.

The board also officially eliminated primaries in subdivisions where there are no contests, acting under the so called "no contest" law.

Jury Decides Grimes Sisters Were Slain

CHICAGO (AP)—A coroner's jury has returned an official verdict that the two teen-age Grimes sisters were murdered. How, when, where and why are still mysteries.

The finding was announced Monday at the conclusion of an inquest, in which conflicting testimony was given about the girls' last known movements.

The jury said the girls died of secondary shock due to exposure to low temperatures.

It failed to establish beyond speculation other major questions concerning the slayings — several of them posed at the inquest by the girls' mother.

Nor did it clarify conflicting testimony or make recommendations regarding Edward (Bennie) Bedwell, 21, skid row odd jobs man who is free on $20,000 bond after confessing, then denying, taking part in the killings.

The nude, frozen bodies of the girls, Barbara, 15, and Patricia, 13, were found in a roadside ditch southwest of the city Jan. 22. They had been missing from their home since the night of Dec. 28 when they attended a movie.

The girls' mother, Mrs. Loretta Grimes, 48, posed a list of 13 questions at the inquest. Among them was:

"Do you think my darlings suffered much or were tortured before they died?"

Coroner Walter McCarron told her medical examiners would answer the questions for her privately. That would keep possibly important information from reaching the killer or killers, he said.

Vacation, Sick Leave Plans Approved

LISBON — Council was deadlocked 2-2 Monday night in a vote on a proposed salary increase for members of the village water department.

Leland Biggins and Fred Reese voted for the wage hike, and Council President Sam Cosma and Ira Neville voted against it. Councilmen Jerry Sanders and Charles Roessler were absent.

A request for a wage hike was made at Council's last meeting by members of the Board of Public Affairs, Dean Beck, Paul Kuhn and Russell Shaw.

Councilmen agreed on vacation and sick leave plans for village employees. Village Solicitor Charles Pike was instructed to draft an ordinance incorporating the vacation and sick leave provisions and present it at Council's next meeting.

Under the plan, village employees with a year's service, would receive a week's vacation; two to 12½ years, two weeks; and more than 12½ years, three weeks.

Workers would not be permitted to let their vacation time accumulate from one year to the next. Under sick leave provisions, full time employees would be allowed one and one-quarter days' sick leave per month. Employees would be required to present a doctor's certificate in order to receive sick leave payment.

Council again postponed action on an Ohio Fuel Co. request for an average 27 per cent increase in gas rates because of the absence of the two councilmen. Bruce Cox of Salem, district manager for the gas firm, urged Council not to delay any longer on the rate hike measure.

Council voted to put two street lights on Cedar St. near the Sadie VanFossen Swimming Pool and also ordered two new fire hydrants for the water department.

Mayor Wilbur Warren reported he heard 82 cases during January — 39 state cases, 1 county case and 42 village cases.

Of the fines and costs collected, $736 was sent to state, $75 to the county and $3,027 to the village.

Will Seek Bids On Township Fire Truck

Advertising for bids for a new fire truck for Perry Township will be published Thursday and Feb. 21, it was reported today.

The township board of trustees held its regular meeting Monday night.

The vehicle will cost an estimated $16,000 and will have a 1,000 gallon tank to carry water to rural areas of the township where water is unavailable.

The trustees were authorized to advertise for bids for a new truck as the result of the passage of a 2.20 mill levy in the November election.

Some Is Lost In Operating Costs

Survey Shows Most U. S. Tax Money Returns To Home State

NEW YORK (AP) — The belief that most federal aid is used to help the poorer states with funds taken from the richer states, is challenged today in a study by the New Jersey Taxpayers Assn.

Connelly, Caudle To Be Sentenced For Tax Fixing

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Matthew J. Connelly and T. Lamar Caudle, who held high posts in the Truman administration, will be sentenced March 5 for conspiring to defraud the government by fixing a tax case.

The date was set in an order by U. S. Dist. Judge Gunnar H. Nordbye of Minneapolis, who also denied defense motions for a new trial or a judgment of acquittal. Judge Nordbye's 37-page opinion was filed today with the court clerk here.

Connelly, who was Truman's White House appointments secretary, and Caudle, who was head of the Justice Department's tax division until he was fired by Truman, were convicted by a federal court jury last summer.

Their sentencing was delayed by the gunshot death of Judge Ruben M. Hulen, who presided at the trial. Judge Nordbye was appointed to pass sentence on them and to pass on defense motions. A coroner's jury was unable to determine whether Judge Hulen killed himself accidentally or deliberately.

Caudle and Connelly were convicted of conspiring to fix the income tax case of Irvin Sachs, St. Louis shoe manufacturer who was fined $40,000 on the tax evasion charges but who escaped a prison term.

Harry I. Schwimmer, former Kansas City attorney who represented Sachs, was indicted with Connelly and Caudle by a federal grand jury but a mistrial was declared in his case when he became ill during the trial. The charge still is pending against him.

Whitney Is Confirmed As Envoy To England

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate confirmed today President Eisenhower's appointment of John Hay Whitney of New York as ambassador to Great Britain.

The chamber also approved by a voice vote, and without dissent, the nomination of C. Burke Elbrick of Kentucky to be an assistant secretary of state.

Other nominations confirmed included Frederick C. Nash of Michigan as general counsel of the Department of Commerce.

It says most of the money just makes a round trip to Washington and back to the state of origin, losing a little on the way through operating costs.

The survey is released as Congress is getting ready to debate federal aid for such things as schools and roads.

The argument on the other side is that some states and communities cannot afford to provide these things themselves because their citizens cannot bear high taxes, having relatively lower incomes.

The New Jersey group says that last year federal aid came to more than $4 billion dollars, provided by the taxpayers of all the states.

By studying what taxpayers of each state paid into Washington and comparing it with the amount of federal aid received by each state, the association states that only 23 per cent of the overall federal grant system was collected directly from taxpayers in the high tax revenue producing states and spent in the lower revenue producing states. This 23 per cent was 800 million dollars.

The major share, 77 per cent, the survey says, was spent in the states whose taxpayers supplied it in the first place. This came to 2½ billion dollars.

The survey shows that 14 states got a little less than 1½ billion dollars in various forms of federal aid, but had put up about 2½ billion in taxes so that Uncle Sam could spend his 3 billion dollars.

The other 34 states, according to the survey, put up a little more than one billion dollars and got almost two billion in federal aid.

In a further breakdown of what taxpayers in each state paid in taxes for each dollar returned in federal aid, the New Jersey group contends that Delaware tops the list by spending $2.45 for each $1 received. Its own state of New Jersey was second with $2.40 in taxes to each $1 in aid — a figure which may account for the New Jersey Taxpayers Assn's particular wrath.

Proponents of federal aid may use the association's own figures, moreover, in arguing that some of the less wealthy states fare better under the system.

The survey shows that in Mississippi, for example, it cost only 29 cents in federal taxes to get $1 in federal aid. This was the lowest amount. Second lowest was the 31 cents in cost an Arkansas taxpayer for $1 of federal aid spent there.

One Last, Kindly Farewell to Lincoln

ABRAHAM LINCOLN'S kindly life was climaxed, at the very end, with one final, touching act of kindness shown him in return.

A young assistant Army surgeon, by merest chance, was snatched into the center of the drama surrounding Lincoln's last hours.

Charles A. Leale, because he was first to respond to the call for a doctor in Ford's Theater, became the doctor in charge of the case.

Dr. Leale's memoirs give a terse report of the humble gesture of friendship which was a final symbol of human compassion.

Lincoln was a hero to Dr. Leale. Earlier in the evening the doctor had joined a crowd outside the White House to hear the president say a few words about the conclusion of the war.

"I was profoundly impressed with his divine appearance as he stood in the rays of the light which penetrated the windows of the White House," the doctor wrote later.

"The influence thus produced gave me an intense desire again to behold his face and study the characteristics of the 'Savior of his Country.' I changed into civilian dress and hurried to Ford's Theater."

Dr. Leale was the first person to enter the box after Booth's shot was fired. He gave first aid but knew immediately that the assassin's blow was mortal.

He directed the knot of distraught men who carried Lincoln across the street through sobbing crowds. Then in the small room where they laid him he kept vigil during the remaining hours.

It was Dr. Leale who offered the fallen hero mankind's final, gentle gesture of farewell.

These are his words:

"Knowing that frequently, just before departure, recognition and reason return to those who have been unconscious, caused me for several hours to hold his hand firmly within my grasp to let him in his blindness know, if possible, that he was in touch with humanity and had a friend."

Lincoln's 148th Birthday Observed

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Abraham Lincoln's 148th birthday anniversary was observed in this shrine city today.

The American Legion's annual pilgrimage to the tomb of the martyred president was one of the day's highlights. Wreath laying ceremonies and an address by national legion Commander W. C. Daniel were on the program at the tomb in Oak Ridge Cemetery.

A group of Springfield lawyers also will make their annual trek to the cemetery, starting from the Sangamon County Courthouse where Lincoln served as an Illinois legislator. Gov. William G. Stratton will head a motor caravan to nearby New Salem Park, site of the village where Lincoln lived as a young man.

Farm Employment Shows Slight Drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says farm employment totaled 5,403,000 during the last week of January, a reduction of 2 per cent from a year ago.

The number also went down about 7 per cent from a month earlier, mostly in hired workers. Employment normally declines at this season of the year when agricultural work is generally slack.

Farm wage rates averaged 78.3 cents an hour on Jan. 1 compared with 73.6 cents last October 1 and 74 cents a year ago, the department said.

Flemming To Resume Duties At Wesleyan

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — Dr. Arthur S. Flemming has resumed full duties as president of Ohio Wesleyan University after an absence of almost four years. He served as national director of the Office of Defense Mobilization during that time.

His only connection now with Washington is membership on the Advisory Committee on Government Organization.

Dr. Flemming has been on leave from the university since June, 1953.

As he resumed his duties here he received a letter of thanks from President Eisenhower. It said in part:

"Along with my appreciation your services as director, Office of Defense Mobilization, you have my thanks for your great contribution to the work of my Advisory Committee on Government Organization. I am glad that you can continue as a member of the committee and will be available for further consultations from time to time."

The President said of Dr. Flemming's work as mobilization director:

"In this complex and exacting work, your vision and sound judgment have been on the highest value. The nation has indeed profited by your dedication to this service over the past four years."

Recently Dr. Flemming told the university's 2,000 students, and later the alumni and trustees, that "our nation's defense program is serving a vital purpose in 'buying us time' until the world experiences the 'spiritual breakthrough' necessary to bring about disarmament and world peace."

HELP DR. SPOCK!

I don't think the good Doctor missed much in his book on baby care, but still parents stop in to ask me questions like these:

Q. I can't get up flood lights every time the baby does something cute — how can I take his picture in doors?

A. Use flash! It's easy and you get good pictures in black and white — or color. Chances are your present camera can be equipped for flash. Or, if not, you can get a genuine Kodak-made flash camera for as little as $4.95, flashholder $3.20.

Q. My little girl is shy — how can I get her to pose naturally?

A. Shy or "ham" — the way to get your child's personality to show in pictures is, give her something to do. Feed the doll. Read a story to the dog. Water the geranium. Blow a BIG bubble. Whatever it is — keep her mind off the camera and your picture will be childhood at its best!

Q. LOOK at these snapshots we took—you can't even see the baby!

A. When you take the picture, move up close with a Kodak Close-Up Attachment (just $1.95 for most cameras) and you'll see every eyelash!

Any more questions? Bring 'em in — we'd like to help!

Renting A Ghost

By HAL BOYLE

ANDROS TOWN, Bahamas (U)—The bottom has fallen out of the ghost rental industry here.

At the moment every ghost in the stable of Constable Boyd, who has built up a monopoly in the spook renting field, is unemployed.

"Moh, nobody seems to want to pay a fair price for one," cheerfully grumbled the venerable constable. "they expect a ghost to work for nothing but rice and pigeon peas."

Dealing in the renting and selling of guaranteed, grade-A haunting ghosts — just the thing for "the man who has everything" — is actually merely a sideline with Constable Boyd.

But his reported power over spectral spirits — no one knows just when he set up his ghostly employment agency — may explain why for 40 years Constable Boyd has had little trouble carrying out his official duties as a peace officer on this largest island of the Bahamas, where remnants of "black magic" still flourish.

The slender, grizzly-moustached constable, who looks like he could be either 62 or 162, has been known to fly to Nassau with natives under arrest even for murder without bothering to handcuff them. The prisoners realize it would be easy to overpower him. But who could whip his table of ghosts?

A gentle, kindly old man whose mind is a reservoir of superstitious folklore handed down from the slave days, Constable Boyd plays many roles.

Constable Boyd is a big man in Coakley Town, the native village, where he helps keep peace among its 350 live souls (and, of course, keeps its innumerable ghosts in line, too). He also is the postman. And on Sunday, as a lay pastor in the native Anglican Church, he puts on his ministerial robes and preaches.

Now, about those ghosts — "My price for renting a ghost is $28 a week, sight unseen," says Constable Boyd, "and I'll sell you a ghost outright for $1,400. But it's only fair to warn you that you can't take him with you. If you leave Andros, he will remain. He can only haunt where he's lived."

So far no one has bought a $1,400 ghost, not even an angry tourist's wife anxious to haunt her husband. Few also seem willing to pay out $28 for a full week.

But the constable resolutely refuses to lower prices or rent his ghosts for part-time work. He feels that no conscientious ghost can do a thorough job of haunting in less than a full week. A ghost on a hurry-up one night assignment hardly has time to gear up his ectoplasm and get into the spirit of the thing. He'd rather let 'em float around and loaf.

"It doesn't cost much to keep them, mon, whether they're rented or not," he points out.

What a customer does with a ghost after he rents it — or who he has it haunt — is none of Constable Boyd's business. All he asks is that it be returned on time and in good condition.

Generally, he says, a ghost that was mean in its lifetime can be counted on to do the meanest kind of haunting.

The constable has an all-male stable of four ghosts at present. (He has never had a call for a lady ghost; presumably living ladies already are doing all the feminine haunting required.) The names of his ghosts are Murray, Gooney, Spence, and Richard Crotch.

"I can really give you good references for the job Crotch will do," says Constable Boyd gravely, his eyes twinkling. "He was a relative."

Nervous Exhaustion

A recent letter from Mrs. C. criticizes a person who suffers from a heart attack or an accident; the victim of a "nervous breakdown" or mental disorder is no more responsible for his condition than for any other disorder.

Nervous exhaustion is a rather loose name commonly given when someone has been under emotional strain for a prolonged period and shows mental or emotional changes from "normal" behavior. Other names of a similar sort are "nervous breakdown" "nerve tension" and the like.

Regardless of the name attached to the mental or emotional difficulty, the most important problem (as is true for other human ailments) is to identify if possible what is causing the trouble and how severe the symptoms produced by it really are.

Certainly some mental or emotional disorders are at least partially caused by the pressures of modern life, the great tensions under which so many of us seem to live today in our rapidly moving society.

Since there is not much we can do about the strains in the world around us, we have to learn to adjust to them as best we can. In the milder cases, recovery is more likely to occur more rapidly than in a severe and long-lasting one which may reflect true mental disease.

There are many lines of treatment. Mental treatment (psychotherapy), rest, physical therapy, including hot or cold baths, handwork, shock treatments and certain drugs are often helpful and have brought thousands back to normal.

Although much still has to be learned about causes, prevention and treatment of the various kinds of mental diseases, progress is already far advanced and even better results can be expected in the future.

Many suffer mental illness, recover and find themselves quite normal again. Lots of those who have gone away for a while with a "nervous breakdown" come back entirely restored to health.

Family, friends and neighbors should always be careful not to criticize someone suffering emotionally or mentally. One does not

Who Is Out Of Step?

Treasury Secretary Humphrey could become even more the man of the hour than his frank desire for a shrinking budget has made him if he would tell his business friends in the United States how inflated budgets get that way.

Someone like Mr. Humphrey sooner or later will have to explain to U.S. businessmen what would happen to them if they, too, went to Washington. Some businessman who has been through the political mill will have to bridge the gap between the business and the political view.

President Eisenhower, it has dawned on many businessmen, is now too liberal to suit them. Treasury Secretary Humphrey, Secretary of Commerce Weeks and Defense Secretary Wilson—all big businessmen—are too liberal to suit them. Labor Secretary Mitchell, despite his business background, also is too liberal for their taste.

Particularly now that President Eisenhower has demonstrated by his re-election that the coalition which supported the Roosevelt-Truman dynasty has disintegrated, some of those who formerly backed him are becoming critical.

They are saying openly what many of them have been thinking privately about the new Republicanism as described by Arthur Larson in "A Republican Looks at His Party." If this is what Dwight Eisenhower and his advisers hope to achieve, it will be a betrayal of the Republican party's conservatives. That is the way they think of it.

That is how wide the gap between businessmen in the Eisenhower administration and businessmen who never went to Washington can become. This is how wide the gap can become between the kind of Republicans who met in Chicago to listen to Sen. Jenner and McCarthy last weekend and the Republicans who heard the new GOP national chairman, Meade ALCORN, say in Kansas City that a "modern Republican" believes in a "blend of the old and the new."

Someone in the Republican party is out of step.

Someone like Treasury Secretary Humphrey could perform an invaluable service by telling what happens to conservatives in Washington.

At A Loss For Words

"A suitable education should include a heavy concentration on the arts of communication."

This statement from an address by Dr. L. R. Hafstad, in charge of the research staff for General Motors Corp., reflects a basic discovery about specialized education, especially in science and engineering.

Dr. Hafstad points to inability to convey information as a major shortcoming in his own belief that more teaching in science and engineering should be done by people who have proved by deeds that they know their subjects. Unfortunately, scientists and engineers are "notoriously inarticulate," he admits.

The shortcoming is not peculiar to them, however. Shortages of communication are painfully obvious, in the medical profession, which has trouble explaining itself, in teaching, in social service and even in politics where the gift of gab is a prime requisite.

But more than gab is needed to tie together the divergent elements of a complex society. Ability to perceive what needs to be explained, then to explain it in a way that creates comprehension is the ultimate secret. The more politicians try to explain what they are doing, the less they sometimes reveal. They talk but they do not comprehend.

Education, all educators agree, should begin at home and never stop. A child asked to explain what he learned in school and who does a workmanlike job may be more in demand than a scientist or an engineer 20 years from now when the market has been glutted with specialists, most of whom will still be at a loss for words.

Never Bet Against It

The first nuclear power system for generating electricity in this country has taken its place alongside Britain's momentous experiment in the same field.

Pay no attention to cautious experts who warn the world not to expect too much from these experiments. Their trouble is, they know what they are talking about.

The giant strides that have been made in material progress have been the brain children of men who did not know what they were talking about. The fact is, the men who figured out a way to release nuclear power did not know what they were talking about; they merely went ahead and did what knowledgeable men had said was impossible.

The cautious men, the prudent men, the men who always know what they are doing and what other men cannot do, are to be pitied. Not for them are the fantasies of comic-book artists and the dreams of nitwits, who now will bet them 10 to 1 that within 25 years nuclear power systems will have revolutionized living in parts of the world still using ox-carts in 1957.

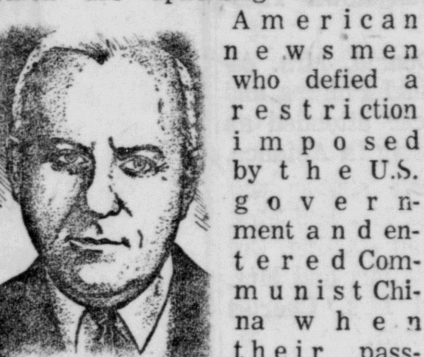

For the first time, electricity will not be tied to stationary waterpower or hard-to-transport coal. It can be generated anywhere on earth.

Equality For All

Travel Restrictions On Business Include Press

Many Washington officials are frankly disturbed about the attitude of those few newspapers which are upholding the three

David Lawrence

American newsmen who defied a restriction imposed by the U.S. government and entered Communist China when their passports were not validated for that purpose.

To defy the government's passport rules on the ground that the press has a right to do as it pleases in foreign travel, even though other citizens are restricted from doing so, is something of a surprise to officials who have always believed all citizens must be dealt with equally.

These officials are confident that, if the issue could somehow be submitted to the American people, public opinion would never uphold the view of those who are refusing to go along with the policies of their own government in a delicate matter of international policy involving an enemy government.

As one official put it, the spokesmen for the viewpoint that the omission of visas on American passports can be disregarded in the interest of news-gathering pose the question of whether the press is above any requirement to support patriotically the government by adhering to the regulations covering foreign travel.

THE SUPREME COURT of the United States, which lays down what is sometimes called the "law of the land," has expressed itself on this very point on several occasions. It said in one case:

"The fact that the publisher handles news while others handle food does not... afford the publisher a peculiar constitutional sanctuary in which he can with impunity violate laws regulating his business practices."

"Nor is a publisher who engages in business practices made unlawful... entitled to a partial immunity by reason of the 'clear and present danger' doctrine which courts have used to protect freedom to speak, to print, and to worship... formulated as it was to protect liberty of thought and of expression, it would degrade the 'clear and present danger' doctrine to fashion from it a shield for business publishers who engage in business practices condemned by the... act."

In another case the Supreme Court, in its opinion, said:

"The publisher of a newspaper has no special immunity from the application of general laws. He has no special privilege to invade the rights and liberties of others. He may be punished for contempt of court. He is subject to antitrust laws. Like others he must pay equitable and nondiscriminatory taxes on his business."

THE ARGUMENT has been advanced by certain members of the press that, while the Department of State has a right to prohibit some citizens from entering Red China—such as businessmen who would engage in transactions prohibited by the laws of Congress—news-gathering stands in a different category and really isn't "business."

The Department of State said in its formal statement on the subject: "If an American reporter entered Communist China on a United States passport, that would violate the restriction of the document on travel in one of the three countries—Gauliga, Albania and Red China."

Many businessmen want to travel in China to engage in trade, which now is embargoed. The Congress has acted on the theory that Red China and the United Nations—including this country, which is the military agent for the U.N. in Korea—are still in a state of war in Korea, where Communist China's armies face American troops every day on the armistice line.

It is not customary for the State Department to issue passports for travel to countries with which a state of war exists.

IT IS TRUE that the Congress was not specifically asked by President Truman in 1950 to declare war or to ratify a state of war in Korea but the subsequent appropriations made by Congress for military purposes and the sanction given to military measures which the United States carried out in accordance with directives from the Security Council of the U.N. testify to the actual state of war.

In the background, of course, is the policy question. The newsmen invited to China are not permitted by the Red China government to go where they please or interview whom they please. They are fed propaganda and with the best intentions in the world, they can only reflect what they see or what they are told.

Newsmen from other countries who have entered Red China in recent months have come out with nothing but what the Red Chinese let them learn. Hence, the Red Chinese get their propaganda distributed and the world doesn't get the whole truth.

RELATED to the dispute is a persistent drive in various quarters here and abroad to compel recognition of the Red China government and its admission to the U.N.

Ye Chou En-lai, Red China's foreign minister, has never withdrawn his bitter attacks on the U.N. made at Geneva in 1954 when he refused to agree to allow a U.N. commission to consider terms of peace in Korea as provided by the armistice itself.

Red China has repeatedly declined to give up American prisoners still held in violation of the Korean armistice.

There has been a hint from Red China that these prisoners might be bartered if the newsmen came in but the Washington government rightly refuses to be a party to such an attempt at blackmail.

Is Boom Topping Out?

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Businessmen are hoping today that February will come up with the clue they waited for in vain in January.

The clue they seek is to the biggest question of the day: Is the boom topping out?

January offered a few signs that the boom is getting tired. Businessmen hope that February may prove these signs wrong. But they may have to wait till March to be sure.

A five-man group of government and private economists has just told Congress that a few small gains here and there should pull the economy as a whole a little higher this year.

Some of them put their faith in increased spending this year by the federal, state and local governments to offset the leveling off of private spending. How the taxpayers will feel about that isn't being stressed.

February could furnish a clue to the big factor: Consumer spending. Merchants did pretty well with their clearance sales in January. In February consumer spending will be on a more normal basis.

Also to be watched this month is the trend in business spending for expansion of plant and new equipment. January saw a handful of the biggest corporations draw in their horns a little—a move that some stock traders were quick to consider bearish.

Announced plans call for big spending in the first half of this year on corporate expansion programs. What businessmen are wondering: Will there be still more of these announced soon? Or has the post-Korean peak been reached?

The trend in prices may become clearer, too, this month.

Commodity dealers have a superstition that there is usually a commodity price break in February. Often there is—but not always.

Particularly nervous right now are the prices for steel scrap and for copper. There is a strong belief in the industrial world that price trends in these, particularly in the case of scrap, foretell the future for metal production.

There is also much uncertainty as the month starts as to what kind of a year the home builders will have. Applications this month for federal guarantees on mortgages should give a clue as to what the home builders will be doing when the weather gets better in March and April.

Easing of the tight money situation in January led some to think that a turn had come in the big investment boom.

The Voice Of Frank Murphy

By VICTOR RIESEL

Above the tumult comes the quiet voice of Frank Murphy, dead these seven years, saying that no labor leader has the right to conceal his union's books from his government.

Victor Riesel

And no greater friend has labor had than this same Frank Murphy, once racket-busting attorney-general, once governor of Michigan, once justice of the Supreme Court.

From the high bench he, who more than any other official helped labor win power, ruled that union chiefs cannot seek silence under the Fifth Amendment nor use it as a paper curtain behind which to secrete the records of their unions.

The labor leaders could do that he said, in effect, only if their unions were their personal property.

Some of them today seem to think the unions are exactly that. Justice Murphy, on June 12, 1944, did not think so.

JUSTICE MURPHY made this clear when one Jasper H. White refused to haul into court the records of Local 542 of the Operating Engineers in Philadelphia.

There's really little that's new under the Miami Beach sun today. The Fifth Amendment was always a problem. Same situation. Just a different union.

White took the Fifth amendment. He just didn't show up with the books. Incidentally, when he finally departed the local, his successors found no financial records or correspondence of any kind.

The White case journeyed slowly up to the Supreme Court. Justice Murphy ruled. It was forgotten until the Teamsters defied the Senate.

Government officials got their dander up and their law books down. In U. S. Report 322, page 694, the government found the weapon it plans to use in its title bout.

Justice Murphy said simply that the Fifth Amendment, guaranteeing all of us our rights, guarantees them only to us humans. Not to some unincorporated thing—in this case a union.

SINCE THE THING has no tongue, someone must speak for it. Thus you subpoena its leaders. Amendment only to protect their own personal constitutional rights. A union has no personal privilege.

Before I pass on more of Justice Murphy's ruling, it should be known that a subpoena duces tecum means, "Come on in, brother, and bring your records with you." The union records, in this case.

The section of Justice Murphy's decision, which the Senate and other government officials plan to use, says this:

In short, where a subpoena duces tecum is directed to a labor union and demands production only of its official documents and records, a union officer in possession of the demanded documents cannot claim the personal privileges against self-incrimination.

He cannot decline to produce the documents on the grounds that they might tend to incriminate the union.

Neither, under the same circumstance, may such an officer claim the personal privilege against self-incrimination and decline to produce the documents on the ground that they may tend to incriminate him as an officer or an individual where no claim was made that any part of the union records or the records requested constituted his own private papers, the section adds.

AFTER ALL, there is no attempt by the Senate to force from the lips of a labor leader the evidence necessary to convict him. The Senate wants to know what's been going on in the unions.

Individual labor leaders act as representatives of their unions. When they do that they are not exercising their personal rights their personal privileges, Justice and duties and are not entitled to Murphy added.

They assume the rights, duties and privileges of the artificial entity of which they are agents or officers. Hence in their official capacity they have no privilege against self-incrimination. They cannot take the Fifth.

That was Justice Murphy's decision. Now, the sentiment in the Senate is that they will have the power to force union officials to show their books—just so long as no labor leader's personal records, bank accounts, or business activities are being probed.

The Senate people believe they may have to go up to the Supreme Court again. But they can wait it out.

By TRUMAN TWILL

If all traffic rules were obeyed like the rule about stopping for school buses, thousands of lives could be saved. What makes the difference is drivers' realization that society will not tolerate anyone who endangers children.

I had not realized how much lighter and easier to wear men's clothes had become until I put on an old suit that had been cast aside for one more public appearance.

Clinical discussions of TV entertainment bore me. Either you like the stuff or you don't; there is no more reason to explain why than there is to explain why you like or dislike okra.

My nomination for the most mispronounced and misspelled word in common usage is "longue" in "chaise longue." Nearly everybody thinks it is "lounge."

My only claim to fame used to be that I never saw Shirley Temple in the movies. It now is shared with a fresh distinction. I never have known the answer to a question on a quiz show—not even the easy ones.

Anyone who wants action and lots of it can get it by opening a discussion of happiness. It is no wonder that Norman Vincent Peale struck gold with his formula for getting what everybody wants and no one can define.

Every time I am reassured that John Foster Dulles is here to stay because the administration believes in him, I remember what Alva Bradley used to tell departing managers of the Cleveland Indians: "I can hire you, but the public fires you."

People gobbling tranquilizer pills to attain a state of indifference to worry and tension could get the same effect if they threw in the sponge and quit trying.

Being the provider for a trio of hungry dogs, I am tempted when eating in a restaurant to go from table to table with my Doggie Pak to get a full quota of meat scraps.

I was shocked to learn how much is left to chance on take off in stories about the plane that belly-slammed into an East River island after heading northeast and coming down pointed due west, without the pilots' knowing of any change in direction.

As a recipient of thousands of "mailing pieces" that have been dropped in the wastebasket, I often wonder if people who pay for this kind of publicity ever find out what happens to it.

Whenever a public official mentions public clamor for ever-greater government spending I snort. There is no public clamor for spending. What the spenders call "clamor" is the noise made by tiny minorities of ax-grinders, con men and quick-buck boys who expect to gain something in a fast shuffle.

I know several able writers who perform only for their own amusement, like people who paint pictures and play musical instruments for personal pleasure.

So They Say

Get this straight. The pilot of that plane is responsible... for the safety of everybody who got out alive. He performed a miracle.—Edwin J. Dresner, a passenger aboard the Northeast airliner that crashed on Riker's Island, N.Y., killing 20.

Just as we can't hold back the hands of history, we can't hold back the idea that one color is as good as another.—Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-NY) supporting a self-sponsored bill that goes beyond the administration's civil rights proposals.

The unity of the Western nations, welded in the agony of two wars, supported at enormous cost by the people of the United States, is in grave danger. If it is to hold, it must be sustained by something more than a common revulsion, by something more than a common fear of Soviet brutality.—Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont) calls for positive cooperation among Western nations.

Imaginary Telecast

MC—Folks, we have here a very pathetic case. It's one that will stir your hearts. Welcome, Mr. Pooks. What's your plight?

Pooks—I'm a sponsor of TV tear-jerker or tin-cup shows. I'm up against it.

MC—Are you short of money?

Pooks—Oh, no. That's one of my troubles: I have too much money. It means nothing to me. I just throw it around.

MC—If it isn't money, what is your trouble?

Pooks—Well, I'm pretty sick.

MC—What's wrong?

Pooks—I've just tuned into one of my own programs! It's forbidden among sponsors to do this and I've lost face for it. None of the others will have anything to do with me.

MC—You seem to be in rags.

Pooks—My clothes got all torn off in conferences with my advertising agents. I tried to get them to agree the program was in bad taste, an exploitation of misery and pretty sickening all around. They pitched on me. Boy, they're tough!

MC—How long since you ate?

Pooks—Several days. I haven't been able to keep much food down since I saw one of the programs I've been sponsoring for months.

MC—Why hadn't you taken a look at the program before?

Pooks—You know how sponsors are. They just look at sales figures.

MC—Why don't they pay attention to the programs into which they pour millions?

Pooks—Guess we just don't like that sense of personal guilt.

MC—When you finally did listen to your program and realized it was pretty bad, why didn't you demand that the show be stopped?

Pooks—I did. And the board of directors fired me. They don't look at the programs and they wouldn't stand for me doing it.

MC—So you're now out of a job, hungry and in pretty bad shape, Mr. Pooks? How can we help you?

Pooks—Well, I'd like a rifle so I could shoot my advertising agent.

MC—What else?

Pooks—I wish somebody would send me in some sackcloth and ashes so I could atone for what I've done as a sponsor.

MC (as the phone rings)—Hello. Who? Thanks! Well, Mr. Pooks, Abernathy Ziggle, acting as treasurer of the TV and Radio Unseen Audience's Guild, is offering you a trip around the world, the Guild's award as Man of the Year and a year's supply of rifles. A sponsor who pays attention to what he is sponsoring rates rich rewards! (All the phones ring madly, indicating Pooks will get quick a jackpot from a sympathetic public.)

Ohio State U. Okays Higher Grade Standards For Students

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Ohio State University trustees today took action designed to make students study harder to remain in school.

Higher grade standards to take effect in September will not affect students already enrolled until after the spring quarter of 1959.

The new rules will require students to have a point-hour average (based on grades) of 2.0 in order to graduate. An average of 1.8 is needed now.

They would require students to maintain a .75 average during the first and second quarters, but the cumulative average must be 1.7 by the end of the third quarter. The "flunk out" point now is anything under a 1.5 average by the third quarter.

A similar raising of the "flunk out" level throughout college is provided in the new rules. Last year, OSU students averaged 2.5 in their grades.

In line with the tougher policy, University President Novice G. Fawcett said the university "owes it to the prospective students and their parents" to be frank in telling them if it appears their chances of completing college are poor. But he added that the final decision on enrolling is still with the student and his parents.

Trustees today also authorized Fawcett to try to find federal money for a 600-car parking ramp on the campus and for a 200-unit housing project for married students. Both projects are expected to pay for themselves, eventually, through rents and parking fees.

Mortar-Like Cameras to Snap Satellite

Specially designed telescopic cameras that look like huge mortars will track the man-made "moon" that the United States will shoot into the air to orbit a satellite 200 miles above the earth's surface. A sketch of the camera is shown at right. Cameras will be located at 12 sites around the world, as indicated on map below. The first station is expected to be set up at White Sands Proving Ground, N. M., by midsummer. The Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, Cambridge, Mass., will manage the camera-tracking operation. It is a project of the International Geophysical Year, which starts July 1 and runs through 1958. In addition to merely photographing the satellite, the cameras will make it possible to map the earth's surface more exactly than ever before. The cameras will register positions within 10 feet on either side of the course and within 25 feet along the course.

Eugene Malmesberry New Member

Two Re-Elected To Mahoning Soil Conservation Board

Dean Beardsley of Canfield, Lloyd Burkhardt of North Jackson, and Eugene Malmesberry of near Damascus were elected to the board of supervisors of the Mahoning County Soil Conservation District Monday night at the district's annual meeting at the Goshen Grange.

Beardsley and Burkhardt were re-elected to three-year terms while Malmesberry replaces Guy Brown. Other members of the five-man board include John A. Cullar and J. Paul Good.

The principal speaker of the evening was Earl McMunn, editor of the Ohio Farmer. He told the some 150 members present that the American farmer is much better off than he thinks he is in comparison with European farmers.

McMunn showed slides and spoke of European agricultural methods which he studied during a recent trip to Europe.

He also pointed out that the publication of scientific inventions of farm equipment has greatly enhanced the growth of the American farmer. He stated that the European farmer faces many handicaps including the problem of having to live on farms of small acreage, livestock disease, shortage of houses to rent, and government established prices of farm equipment.

He was introduced by Charles Phillips, area conservationist of nine northeast Ohio counties.

The district reported a bank balance of $216 as of Jan. 31, 1956. This was a drop of $62 under the balance of Jan. 1, 1956.

Fred Merrill, soil conservationist, revealed that since the beginning of the district four years ago, a total of 10,000 acres has entered into the conservation crop rotation program. He said also in that period the district has provided for over 32 miles of sod waterways and has constructed 109 farm ponds.

Tour He Didn't Take Costs Sinatra $75,000

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The tour he didn't make will cost Frank Sinatra "in excess of $75,000."

That's the estimate of promoter Lee Gordon, who booked Sinatra and a troupe of 12 entertainers and musicians for what was to be a three-week tour of Australia and the Philippine Islands.

Gordon said that he and the singer's business manager, Hank Sanicola, reached an agreement whereby Sinatra will pay for all expenses incurred.

He said Sinatra has agreed to make the tour later this year, possibly in October. Sinatra cancelled his scheduled appearance after a dispute in Honolulu over airline tickets to Australia.

Award Presented To Lionel Smith

One hundred nineteen persons attended the annual dinner of Boy Scout Troop 3 and Explorer Post 3 Monday evening in the First Presbyterian Church.

Leonard McDaniel, northern district field executive, gave brief remarks.

Patrols of Troop 3 presented a series of skits which included: Arrow stunt, presented by Flaming Arrow patrol, and announced by Richard Carter and Tom Mercer, patrol leaders; school days, Beaver patrol, Larry Layden, Kenny Pearson; at the railroad crossing, Fox patrol, Richard Ashead and Ricky Sulea; brutal miner, Buffalo patrol, Richard Ashead and Fred Kaiser.

feels there is no prospect of getting such commitments from either Egypt or the United Nations.

The alternative to Israeli agreement to a compromise plan is regarded in Washington as being a showdown over Arab-Asian demands for U.N. sanctions against Israel. Debate on those demands had been scheduled in the U. N. today, but the United States reportedly got agreement for a two-day delay.

Israeli troops occupied the Gaza Strip and the Sharm el Sheikh region on the Gulf of Agaba during military operations against Egypt last October and November. Six U. N. resolutions have called for Israeli withdrawal.

The two-point U. S. formula was worked out by Dulles and his principal State Department advisers last weekend. Dulles was in touch during that period with President Eisenhower, who is at Thomasville, Ga.

The United States view is that American leadership on the Aqaba issue would win support of many other nations and the hope is that Egypt would go along. If it did not do so, the issue could then be taken to the United Nations or some other action adopted, it was said.

Final Exams

lated. Schools today are too pressed for time to devote two weeks to nothing but finals, he continued. Now examinations are given at the end of significant chapters or periods in the course, he told the board.

A comparison of the results of the two different types of teaching shows excellent results after finals were dropped, Supt. Kerr declared.

He continued that knowing where to get the facts, without trying to catalogue every fact in one's mind, is the important thing. Cataloguing facts is not thinking, he stated.

The superintendent concluded by telling the board that he offered his remarks only to acquaint them with the background on finals, and that if the board desired finals, they would be speedily initiated in Salem schools.

Heddlston then asked Kerr why colleges still use final exams, if they are an outdated form of education.

"Because colleges and universities are two generations behind the schools in good teaching practices," Kerr declared. The colleges are slowly coming around to contemporary thinking on finals, he reported, especially in teachers' colleges.

LUDWIG THEN DISCUSSED final exams. He said some schools use them in the "hope to build a fire under lazy students."

Others use them as a threat to students who are often tardy or absent he said, requiring those students to take finals.

He said the real purpose of finals is to check on what the student has learned and to prepare him for college, where finals still count as a heavy part of the student's grade.

Ludwig declared he felt there is a "tremendous emotional strain" on students about to take final exams.

He said he believes the student is better able to stand the strain when he is older and in college. Fitch questioned whether the knowledge that he was to have a final exam might not induce the student to work harder all through the year, so that he would be prepared on final exam day.

Ludwig agreed that this was possible, but that cramming for finals still would be a problem.

Ludwig suggested that six-week tests might be the answer, with each test including some material from earlier in the year until the final six-week test would include some questions from throughout the year, yet not be a final exam in the sense of being a comprehensive examination, of the whole year's work and counting a large proportion of the student's yearly grade.

HE SAID HE FELT this was a better plan than final exams.

Fitch asked why. Ludwig replied that it stimulates the student into study without the emotional strain involved in true finals.

Fitch then took up the discussion.

He said cataloguing facts is not the final goal of education, but should be a phase of it, such as memory of the multiplication tables, arithmetic rules and spelling of common words.

The board president added that he "would presume Salem's teachers could construct exams that would test the thinking power of the student rather than his catalogued knowledge."

Fitch said he liked the idea of the cumulative six-week exams. "Even though the finals may not count as a huge percentage of the course and may not be as comprehensive as college finals, yet high school people should take the responsibility of learning something," he said.

Fitch explained that adults have to be prepared for their work with know-how of the job involved and youths also need to learn responsibility.

Turning to the emotional side of the question, Fitch said he knows the policy now is to try to shelter young people from too great emotional experiences. But he added: "Any youth that is going to be prepared to face life, should be able to face an exam."

EIGHTY PER CENT of Salem's students must immediately go out and "face life" after high school, he pointed out, since 20 per cent go to college.

He said that the board members all had indicated privately they were in favor of finals for the Salem schools.

Fitch continued that he would like all except the emotionally unstable to take finals, if it were possible to single out those who are unstable.

Board member Donald Lease related that a Salem High School "A" student told him she was "scared stiff" of facing college exams. She claimed she doesn't know how to study, Lease said.

He also told the men that he questioned three teachers and found all three in favor of final exams.

Ludwig said the teachers were divided on the matter, some strongly in favor and some strongly opposed.

After more discussion, Fitch suggested Ludwig draw up a proposed test program, based on the cumulative system Ludwig had mentioned earlier. A draft of the proposal will be brought back to the board for further study.

Mrs. Charles Mangus of Perry St. has returned home from the Akron City Hospital.

Mrs. Ross Mellinger of Conneaut Lake, Pa., a former Salem resident, is recovering from surgery in the Spencer Hospital at Meadville, Pa.

Premature debate broke out in the Senate Monday when Sen. Long (D-La.) accused Secretary of State Dulles of having told a "falsehood" to the joint committee which heard him testify for six days.

Long based the charge on what he said were Dulles' negative replies to questions whether he "had given thought" to the presidential authority under which U. S. troops were sent to Iceland in World War II and to Korea in 1950.

"I know of no more deceptive person in public life than John Foster Dulles," Sen. Morse (D-Ore.) told Long.

But Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass.) replied that "I have yet to see an instance" in which Dulles ever "tried to deceive Congress or wanted to."

The Soviet six points appeared to represent the Kremlin's answer to President Eisenhower's doctrine to stabilize the Middle East.

The U. S. President offered military and economic assistance against Communist aggression, if requested, to any country in the strategic oil-rich area.

Shepilov revealed the six-point proposal in the first foreign policy speech of the Supreme Soviet's current semiannual session.

The foreign minister also told the Soviet parliament that his government still believes "war is not fatalistically inevitable." He declared that peaceful coexistence between communism and Western capitalism is still "the cornerstone of the foreign policy of the Soviet state."

The policy of peaceful coexistence, Shepilov declared, is not "a political maneuver that the Soviet state has found expedient at the moment, as our enemies are trying to depict it."

Mrs. Rush later apologized to Spanish-American people but she was relieved of her position.

After Mrs. Rush's remarks Saturday, the DAR and state officials mutually agreed to cancel a DAR-sponsored pageant at the State Industrial School for Boys in nearby Golden. Some of the boys at the correctional institution are of Spanish-American descent.

Both the Denver City Council and the Colorado House of Representatives passed resolutions asking the governor to prohibit the DAR from sponsoring programs at state institutions.

out the country. He has claimed he was offered as much as $250,000 and a "good job" with the union if he withdrew.

Rarick never identified who reportedly made him the money offer but he said, on several occasions, that McDonald offered him a good job.

McDonald said Rarick has "a fantastic imagination" and he said Rarick's statements were "plain unmitigated lies."

McDonald never mentioned Rarick's name in the campaign. During the past few weeks he has spoken to several regional USW meetings throughout the country, lauding the USW and explaining its goals in the future.

There are some 2,700 USW locals scattered throughout the United States and Canada. It is expected the official results will not be available for several weeks.

the countries of the Near and Middle East.

"5. The mutual renunciation of the supply of arms to countries of the Near and Middle East.

"6. Cooperation toward the economic development of the countries of the Near and Middle East without making any political, military or other conditions whatsoever incompatible with the dignity and sovereignty of these countries."

The Soviet six points appeared to represent the Kremlin's answer to President Eisenhower's doctrine to stabilize the Middle East.

The U. S. President offered military and economic assistance against Communist aggression, if requested, to any country in the strategic oil-rich area.

Shepilov revealed the six-point proposal in the first foreign policy speech of the Supreme Soviet's current semiannual session.

The foreign minister also told the Soviet parliament that his government still believes "war is not fatalistically inevitable." He declared that peaceful coexistence between communism and Western capitalism is still "the cornerstone of the foreign policy of the Soviet state."

The policy of peaceful coexistence, Shepilov declared, is not "a political maneuver that the Soviet state has found expedient at the moment, as our enemies are trying to depict it."

Mrs. Rush later apologized to Spanish-American people but she was relieved of her position.

After Mrs. Rush's remarks Saturday, the DAR and state officials mutually agreed to cancel a DAR-sponsored pageant at the State Industrial School for Boys in nearby Golden. Some of the boys at the correctional institution are of Spanish-American descent.

Both the Denver City Council and the Colorado House of Representatives passed resolutions asking the governor to prohibit the DAR from sponsoring programs at state institutions.

DAR Asked To Halt Activity In Colorado
DENVER (AP) — Colorado Gov. Steve McNichols Monday asked the Daughters of the American Revolution not to conduct activities in state institutions — at least for the present.

The Denver chapter of the DAR received McNichols' request after Mrs. Charlotte C. Rush, chairman of the Patriot Education Committee, said, "I wouldn't want a Mexican to carry Old Glory — would you?"

Mrs. Rush later apologized to Spanish-American people but she was relieved of her position.

promise version of the controversial standards for elementary education.

The compromise on the elementary standards, subject of a 90-day hassle in state board meetings, involves private and parochial school teachers.

Originally, the proposed standards would have required teachers in non-tax-supported schools to hold certificates from the Ohio Department of Education beginning with the school year starting next September.

Postponed Until 1959-60
The compromise postponed this requirement until the 1959-60 school year. But in the meantime, the compromise provides, private and parochial teachers must have the minimum educational requirements for a temporary teaching certificate in the public schools. Generally, this means they must have at least two years of college training.

The board listened to a request for approval of a 300-acre annexation, for school purposes, from Ross Township to the city of Hamilton, as required by law.

Glenn Rich, a nine-year employee of the department was approved as director of the division of elementary and secondary education to succeed the late Dr. Ralph M. Garrison.

Van Doren Boosts Prize To $138,000
NEW YORK (AP) — Charles Van Doren, Columbia University instructor who celebrates his 31st birthday today, has boosted his television quiz show winnings to $138,000.

Van Doren picked up another $16,000 Monday night on NBC's "21" show by defeating two opponents, John Kieran Jr., son of the former Information Please expert, and Dr. Hall Griffith, author and political speech writer.

The $138,000 figure made Van Doren TV's top single-show money winner but second to 11-year-old Lennie Ross of Tujunga, Calif., as television's top quiz show winner. Young Ross has won $64,000 on CBS' The $64,000 Challenge and $100,000 on NBC's The Big Surprise.

Van Doren scored a 21-0 victory over Kieran by correctly answering questions on George Washington and show music. It won him $10,500. He added another $5,500 by defeating Griffith 21-10 on questions relating to bodies of water and queens. Points are determined by the difficulty of the questions.

He returns next week to announce whether he'll continue. The show has no limit, its producers said.

Van Doren, son of Pulitzer Prize-winning poet Mark Van Doren, receives $4,400 annually as a university instructor.

The Weather Bureau and Coast Guard reports noted that seas were choppy that night, it was foggy and the wind was 20 miles an hour.

Meanwhile, spouses of both the physician and nurse said their marriages were breaking up. At Mercersville, N. J., Mrs. Dodge said she left her husband last May because of the nurse.

The nurse's husband Eugene, a Trenton, N. J., automobile brake shop employee, said he had filed suit for divorce on grounds of desertion. He has been caring for their two daughters, Janice Marie, 6, and Phyllis Jean, 14.

The Dodos also have two daughters, Barbara, 9, and Judy, 17.

Highway Council To Close Shop

O'Neill To End State 3-Man Body Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. C. William O'Neill's signature will spell the end of the state highway construction council.

It's all that is needed to abolish the three-man body that worked four years to classify Ohio highways and screen major construction projects. Now, O'Neill says, its work is completed.

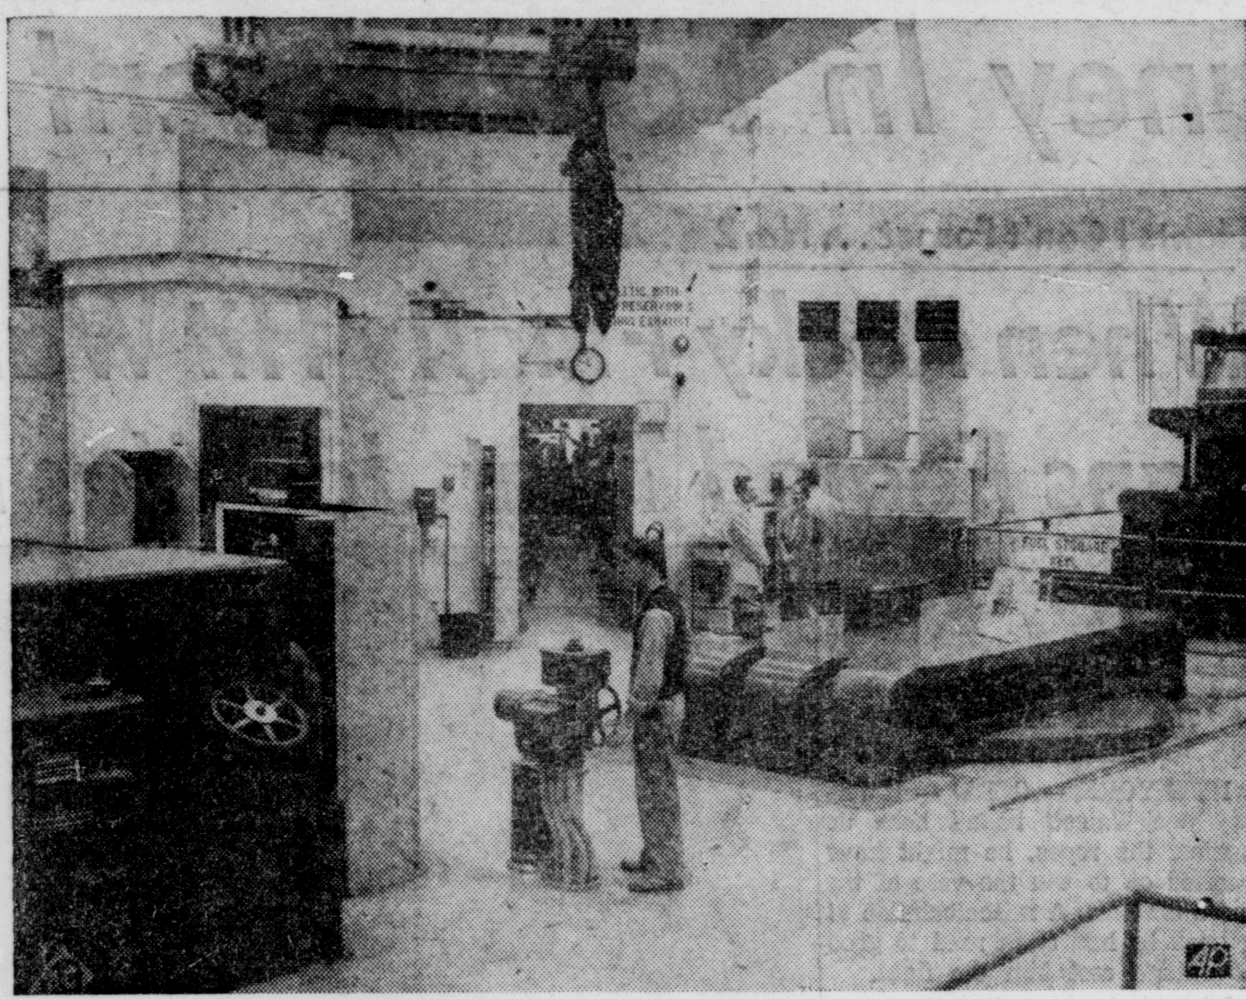

The Senate Monday night passed an emergency measure by a 30-2 vote to abolish the council. The House approved the bill earlier.

The governor, who says he will sign the bill as soon as the Legislature sends it to him, said it was "the first state board or commission in my memory to be abolished lock, stock and barrel without passing its functions or personnel on to some other state agency."

The Senate also took under consideration a list of appointees recommended by former Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche. The Senate withheld confirmation of the appointments until O'Neill took office.

Resubmitted by O'Neill were appointments of:

A. G. Madden of Madeira and Emerson Mizer of Cadiz to the ney general was named executive assistant to the director of natural resources and Joseph B. Hall, of Athens, president of the Kroger Co. of Cincinnati, was named a trustee of Ohio University.

After conferring with legislative leaders, O'Neill had these statements to make:

Later this month, possibly Feb. 25 or 26, he will submit a balanced budget for the next two years. He said it will mean, however, that "not all the demands that have been made can be met."

A study will be made of proposed salary increases for 42,000 state employees. He declined to speculate on results of the study.

In the Legislature, meanwhile, bills introduced would:

Increase the state's gasoline tax by one penny and repeal the axle mile tax on trucks.

Boost the state tax to six cents a gallon, on top of a three-cent federal tax, and yield an estimated 28 million dollars in additional state revenue, by Reps. George M. Hook Jr. (D-Brown) and John D. Hayden (R-Clermont).

Prohibit trucks with a total weight of 8,000 pounds or more from using Ohio highways between 10 a.m. and midnight on Sundays and holidays, by Reps. Terry Drake (R-Crawford) and Neil S. Robinson (R-Richland). Buses, publicly owned vehicles, emergency vehicles, farm machinery, foodstuffs and newspapers are exempt in the bill.

Provide for county-wide school tax levies with distribution on membership basis, proposed by Reps. Kenneth L. Beckwith (R-Morgan), Irving C. Reynolds (R-Lucas), Andy Devine (D-Lucas), and A. G. Lancione (D-Belmont).

Authorize state universities to acquire sites and buildings for dormitories or for students and families, by Reps. Kenneth Robinson (R-Marion) and Ralph D. Cole Jr. (R-Hancock).

Permit merger of police and fire departments in Ohio cities and one department, by Sen. Fred Danner (R-Summit).

Ashland Beats Giffin By 126-96 Count

A sports fan who ambled in at halftime, at the Ashland - Giffin Junior College basketball game at Ashland Monday night might reasonably have muttered to himself: "Heck, I must have missed the whole game."

The scoreboard read: Ashland 72, Giffin 46.

But that wasn't enough. Ashland went ahead to clobber Giffin 126-96 and set a new school single game record. The old record was 123 points, scored against Cedarville in the 1953-54 season.

In conference competition, the big news was Ohio University's stunning 89-81 victory over Miami at Oxford.

It was Miami's first Mid-American Conference loss of the season against eight victories.

Miami held a 46-42 halftime lead, but the Bobcats caught fire in the second half to gain the victory.

At Akron, Akron University defeated Oberlin 89-61 to keep in the running for the Ohio Conference basketball championship. Akron will have to beat Denison, leading the conference with a 9-2 record, at Granville tomorrow night to remain in the running.

The loss, Oberlin's fourth in 13 starts, snapped a three-game winning streak.

Playing at Institute, W. Va., Central State of Ohio defeated West Virginia State 72-64 and at Hiram, Marietta College's Pioneers handed Hiram its eighth straight Ohio Conference loss 93-67.

In one other game, at Buffalo, N. Y., Buffalo State Teachers gained a 72-65 victory over Baldwin-Wallace.

WINS IN DOG SHOW

NEW YORK (AP) — Maltese CH. Brittan's Dark Eyes, owned by Anne and Stewart Pendleton of Louisville, Ohio, was judged best of breed for the second straight year in preliminary judging Monday at the 81st Westminster Kennel Club dog show.

GOLF PRODIGY—Sharon Flados, 13-year-old eighth grader from Dubuque, Iowa, carded an 82 over the 6,008-yard Palm Beach, Fla., Golf Club course to make the championship flight in the Palm Beach Women's golf match. She then ousted Joanne Goodwin of Haverhill, Mass., in the first round of match play.

Indiana Routs Minnesota In Big 10 Race

By JOE MOOSHIL

The Associated Press
Indiana's league-leaders opened a slight gap in the tight Big Ten basketball race by crushing Minnesota Monday night but Michigan State's Spartans remained the hottest team in the conference.

Indiana pulled one-half game ahead of idle Ohio State with a 91-72 triumph over Minnesota and Michigan State turned in its fifth straight triumph by edging Purdue 68-66.

Illinois remained in the thick of the chase by beating Northwestern, 104-97, and Wisconsin turned in its first league triumph, slipping past Michigan, 70-65. Every home team except Purdue was victorious.

For the time being, the race narrowed to a four-team affair with Indiana (6-2) on top, followed by Ohio State (6-3) and Illinois (5-3) and Michigan State (5-3).

Purdue's loss to Michigan State was the third straight for the Boilermakers giving them a 5-4 record.

Archie Dees, the Big Ten's leading scorer, received ample help from Dick Neal in turning back Minnesota. Dees scored 29 points and Neal added 24 and Indiana was never in serious trouble.

Jack Quiggle's 25-foot set shot with four seconds to play kept Michigan State rolling. Defeated in their first three games, the Spartans are now looked upon as one of the toughest teams in the Big Ten.

Purdue was ahead 39-34 at the half and held a 59-49 lead midway in the second half. Four successive baskets put the Spartans into contention and helped set the stage for Quiggle's heroics.

Illinois and Northwestern battled in one of the hottest shooting matches ever staged at Huff Gymnasium. The two teams had a combined shooting average of .516 with Illinois posting .519 and Northwestern .512.

Harv Schmidt scored 34 points for Illinois but Northwestern's Joe Ruklick was even more impressive. Ruklick scored 31 points in the first half and another field goal in the second half in which he saw but several minutes of playing time because of fouls.

Illinois led 57-56 at the half and the lead exchanged hands several times after intermission before Illinois opened up a 12 point gap on the shooting of Don Ohl. Ohl scored 20 points, 17 in the second half.

Wisconsin finally came through with its first conference victory of the season as four Badgers scored in double figures. Bob Litzow led the parade with 20 points while Bucky Holt, making his first Big Ten start, added 18.

Wisconsin went ahead 30-19 and held a 32-29 advantage at halftime, a lead the Badgers never lost. Pete Tillotson was high for Michigan with 17 points.

Aragon Denies He Tried To Fix Fight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Art Aragon, Los Angeles welterweight, denied on the witness stand Monday that he offered boxer Dick Goldstein $500 to "take a dive" in a fight scheduled for San Antonio, Tex., last Dec. 18.

Aragon is being tried on fight fixing charges on Goldstein's complaint that the "Golden Boy" offered him the money to "go down in the fourth and stay down." Aragon had a different version. He said Goldstein had asked him to throw his punches so he wouldn't get cut up because he was planning to visit his family in Seattle over the Christmas holidays.

"I told him that was entirely up to him," said Aragon, "that if he got knocked down in the first, or fourth, or fifth round, don't be a hero, stay down and don't get cut up."

Aragon said he had told the same thing to many other fighters because "I don't like to hurt fighters."

The bout never came off. Aragon withdrew from the fight on the grounds that he had a fever.

Pairings will be made next week. The survivor will represent Ohio in the NAIA tournament at Kansas City March 11-18.

North Carolina Still No. 1

Kansas Voted 2nd, Kentucky In 3rd

By The Associated Press
Unbeaten North Carolina may be leaving Coach Frank McGuire limp of late with those near defeats, but the faith of the nation's sportswriters and sportscasters is as strong as ever — retaining the Tar Heels as the No. 1 team in this week's Associated Press college basketball poll.

Despite a couple of scares last week — 65-61 in double overtime against Maryland and 75-73 over Duke — North Carolina piled up almost 100 points more than runner-up Kansas and third-place Kentucky.

The Tar Heels (19-0 today) gathered 56 first-place votes in the balloting, judged on games through last Saturday. Kansas (14-1) gained 16 first-place votes, while Kentucky (now 17-4) lured three firsts.

Rankings are based on a point system counting 10 points for a first-place vote, 9 for a second, etc.

Southern Methodist and UCLA skidded down a couple of notches after upsets last week — making room for Seattle and Bradley — both of whom gained surprisingly strong support to move up to fourth and fifth, respectively, after being placed seventh and eighth a week ago.

SMU (16-3) slipped from fourth to sixth. UCLA, its 23-game winning streak in the Pacific Coast Conference halted decisively by Washington, dropped from fifth to seventh with a 16-2 record.

Louisville, beaten twice last week, fell from sixth to eighth. Iowa State is ninth and West Virginia 10th.

The top 10, with first-place votes in parentheses:

1. North Carolina (56) 887
2. Kansas (16) 797
3. Kentucky (3) 596
4. Seattle (5) 401
5. Bradley (5) 377
6. Southern Methodist 327
7. UCLA 303
8. Louisville (1) 287
9. Iowa State 200
10. West Virginia (4) 138

The second 10, in order: Wake Forest, California, Oklahoma City, Canisius, West Virginia Tech, Illinois, Duke, Vanderbilt and Indiana, tie, and St. Louis.

Folley Decisions

Howie Turner

NEW YORK (AP) — Zora Folley, of Chandler, Ariz., the sixth-ranked contender for champion Floyd Patterson's crown, scored a unanimous 10 - round decision over Brooklyn's Howie Turner Monday night at St. Nicholas Arena.

Folley now has won his last seven fights and his over - all record stands at 29 victories, two defeats and one draw. Turner is 20-4-5.

The fight was a listless affair with no knockdowns and little action.

In the fifth round, Folley connected with a stiff right uppercut to the head and that seemed to slow up the heavier Turner. The Brooklynite took some hard blows in the fight and in counterpunching slipped to the canvas after landing a short left hook.

Folley weighed in at 190½, Turner 207½.

Referee Arthur Mercante scored it 6-2-2 for Folley, judge Joe Agnello had it 7-3 and judge Nick Gamboli had Folley in front 6-3-3.

Finsterwald Beats Whitt At Tucson

By MURRAY SINCLAIR

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The first hole settled the playoff round of the $15,000 Tucson Open golf tourney Monday, sending Dow Finsterwald into the pro-amateur event at San Antonio, Tex., today richer by $2,000.

Don Whitt, the young pro from Alameda, Calif., who had never finished better than 11th in a PGA tourney, went 2 strokes behind on the initial hole and never caught up. Second place brought him $1,500, his biggest prize.

Steady, relaxed play gave Finsterwald 33-32-65 for the 6,434-yard El Rio course, 5 under par and a 4-stroke victory. Whitt scrambled for 37-32-69. Both had 11-under-par 269s at the end of the regular 72 holes Sunday.

Each took turns driving into spectators.

Finsterwald overshot the No. 2 green. The ball appeared headed out of bounds when it hit the wife of a Tucson golf pro on the arm and fell within a foot of the green. Both parred the hole.

On No. 5, a 330-yard dogleg, Whitt shot over trees for the green. The ball hit a man, dropped into a bad lie and he missed a chance for a birdie.

Trees spelled trouble for the young Californian throughout the early holes. His first drive was behind a mesquite tree, costing him a stroke to get back on the fairway and a 5 on the hole. Finsterwald got a birdie 3, and the tourney was virtually over.

Fights I Can't Forget ... No. 2

When Rocky Finally Hit Walcott, Fans Feared That Joe Was Dead

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Nat Fleischer, for 31 years boxing's official historian as sports editor of the New York Telegram and now editor of the famed Ring Magazine and Ring Record Book, puts down, exclusively for NEA Service, the fights he cannot forget. This is the second of 10 dispatches.)

By NAT FLEISCHER

Written for NEA Service

NEW YORK — (NEA) — If Jersey Joe Walcott hadn't been up against the ropes, he might have carried on to win the vote of the three officials. A miscalculation of a trick he had often used to good advantage cost him the fight.

With his back against the ropes he shifted his body in an effort to baffle his opponent. That movement brought him in direct line to the short right hand that Rocky Marciano threw. It was a punch that will live long in the memories of myself and others fortunate enough to see it. Marciano, the only fighter of the past three decades with a one-punch knockout formula, ended a tough, brawling battle in 43 seconds of the 13th round at Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium with his short and powerful right.

THIS WAS SEPTEMBER 23 1952, and at the end of the 12th round, Marciano was behind on all score cards. The 13th round was still young when Walcott twisted Rocky threw — and the champion was sprawled grotesquely against the ropes, an inert mass.

But, before that he had put up one of the best fights of his long career. In fact, a remarkable one. He made the fight a throwback to the days of Jeffries, Johnson and Dempsey. In the first minute of the bout, he nailed Marciano with a left hook and put him on the floor for the count of three. He made Rocky's knees buckle in the fifth with a solid right to the head. Again, in the 11th, two hard lefts to the side of the face staggered Marciano. In the 12th, a right to the midsection almost bent Marciano in half.

When they raised Marciano's arm, he had a deep gash on the bridge of his nose that required four stitches and a scalp wound that covered his face with blood.

WALCOTT HAD ELECTRIFIED the crowd by never flinching during slugging exchanges with his opponent. At times when age tired him, Jersey Joe would use a shuffling, backward style to advantage. But when stung by a hard punch, he would sail right into a give-and-take flurry.

But at the end, Referee Charley Daggert was counting over a Walcott who never twitched as he lay crumpled. Spectators watched in awe — and fear that Walcott had been fatally injured.

In winning the championship, Marciano proved himself every inch a fighting champion. A forward, crude, missing punches like a novice, lacking the finesse of his opponent, Rocky still came forward.

Round after round, he forced the fight. His objective was the crown and as the fight wore on only a knockout would bring it to him. Walcott would back up, then step in and punch, then slide away again. Rocky was eager to fight — eager despite being rocked time after time.

THE DANGER was always there for Walcott. At times, Rocky was tormented by a stinging substance which got into his eyes — just what has not been determined. But, while barely able to see, he kept after Walcott and made it one of the greatest fights I've seen.

It was the first time Marciano had gone beyond 10 rounds. But he wrapped a career into the knockout punch. It was over in an instant.

Title-Holders Among Top-Ranked Teams

Ohio Class A Teams Begin Tournaments

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's 696 Class A high school basketball teams throw away the records this week and start down the long trail to the state championship.

The county tournaments, first leg on the trail, must be finished by Feb. 23. By then, only 234 of the big field will be left. A total of 462 quintets will be sidelined, victims of the "lose and out" system.

The Class AA quintets, 349 of 'em, pass up tournament play until next week and then dash into sectional competition. In both classes the sectionals must be completed by March 2, the districts by March 9, and the regionals by March 16.

The latter will decide the four teams in each division which will battle it out in the St. John Arena on Ohio State's campus, March 22-23, for the titles.

Both 1956 title-holders, Middletown in Class AA and Arcanum in Class A, are among the top-ranked quintets again. The Middies, riding a 16-game winning streak on top of the 25 straight which carried them to the crown, are pacing The Associated Press poll of sports writers. They have all season.

Arcanum, which carried a 23-1 record into the state tourney at Cleveland a year ago, has dropped four of 20 this year and is ranked ninth. Out front in Class A is once-beaten Troy - Luckey of Wood County, followed by Lowellville and Strasburg. All three have 17-1 marks.

With 45 sports editors voting this week (compared with 54 a week ago), Middletown's margin over Cleveland Cathedral Latin was shaved quite a bit. Last week on the 10-9-8-etc. voting basis, the Middies held a 418 to 311 point edge over the Cleveland club, a margin of 107 points. This week it was 302 to 264—only 38 points.

Staubenville's Big Red, which showed its class in handing Cuyahoga Falls its first setback by a rousing 90-61 margin Friday, made it a three-team race by piling up 222 points in the poll, 80 back of the leaders. Last week's poll had the Big Red 253 points off the pace.

Canton McKinley, dumped 48-46

DON'T TOUCH—Don Bragg is a sophomore at Villanova College, but an old hand at pole vaulting. Bragg hoisted his 190-pound frame over the 15-foot mark for the 15th time in a Philadelphia meet. And that was only at the start of the indoor track season.

same thing for a 60-58 win over Akron South, and his last-second shot tied Barborton, only to have the Magics win in an overtime.

Portsmouth's Trojans scored 69 in each of last week's games, defeating Mansfield 69-65 and losing to Ironton 81-69 for a 5-11 record. The Trojans have the dubious pleasure of closing Friday against Middletown at Middletown.

Things are really blue at Blue Creek in Adams County. The team finished with an 0-16 record. Last year it was 1-16, a two-year mark of one win against 32 defeats.

Larry Siegfried of Shelby, the state's No. 1 Class AA scorer, counted 25 in the 77-52 win over Bucyrus, giving him 616 for 16 games, an average of 38.5. Jerry Lucas of Middletown played only two minutes of the second quarter and none of the fourth as he collected 35 points in a 96-50 romp over Dayton Dunbar. That hiked his 16-game total to 583, an average of 36.4.

Middletown now owns the second and third best consecutive win streaks. The current 41-game spurge is third, and they also have a 43-game stretch chalked up in the 1944-45 campaigns. Dayton Stivers' 46-game streak in the early 30s is still tops.

Syndicate Takes Over Painesville Raceway

CLEVELAND (AP) — A syndicate headed by Don H. Roberts of Jackson, Mich., is the new operator of Painesville Raceway, a harness racing track, in adjoining Lake County.

Purchase of the operating lease from Saul Silberman and associates was announced Monday night by Roberts, who is racing secretary and assistant general manager of the Grandview harness racing track on Ohio 43 near here.

Roberts said he would be director of racing at the Painesville track and also would retain his Grandview positions. Walter J. Michael, Bucyrus, Ohio, industrialist, will be chairman of the board of directors of the new syndicate.

Paul Richards Sees 1957 As Year Of Growth For Orioles

(Another of a series of managerial views on the pennant races, written under the managers' own bylines —)

By PAUL RICHARDS

WAXAHACHIE, Texas. (AP) — We view 1957 as another year of growth for our Baltimore Orioles. We will begin our spring training this year with the best assemblage of talent since Baltimore returned to the American League four years ago.

We are realistic enough to know, however, that we have a long way to go and it will take much energy and industry to move us up higher in the league.

On the pitching front, I'm confident that we have one of the finest staffs in the league. Our biggest problem is to develop a strong offensive punch so we can score enough runs to give our pitching staff a chance.

We are hoping the addition of Al Pilarcik to our outfield will strengthen us both defensively and offensively. With Bob Nieman, Dick Williams, Tito Francona, Pilarcik and Jim Pyburn in the outfield, there is no doubt we have a stronger group there than a year ago. Our infield also looks improved. George Kell believes he will be able to play more than 100 games at third base this year and we continue to look to Willie Miranda at shortstop and Billy Gardner at second base for excellent defensive work. Bob Boyd's position at first seems secure for all of the doctors report that his arm will soon be back to normal.

Behind the plate we have the second best catcher in the American League in Gus Triandos and I feel that Gus will demonstrate considerably more power at the plate this year than last when he hit 21 home runs. Without going too far out on the limb, I am confident that the Baltimore Orioles will be one of the improved clubs in the AL in 1957.

Pro Hockey Players Form Association

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN

NEW YORK (AP) — Sports unionism, spreading among pros like labor leader John L. Lewis sweeping through the West Virginia coal fields 20 years ago, claimed big league hockey players today.

National Hockey League players, already guaranteed $6,500, the highest minimum annual wage in sports, Monday organized to jump on the bandwagon started by major league baseball players. They also have a 10-year-old pension plan.

The founding of a hockey players' association came two weeks after owners of National Football League teams voted not to recognize a pro football players group. And the National Basketball Assn. is in the middle of a three-month respite requested by league President Maurice Podoloff to hold off player threats to organize an industrial-type union.

Ted Lindsay, 33-year-veteran of the Detroit Red Wings, announced the formation of the association at a press conference. He said every player in the league but one had contributed $100 to join. There are about 90 players among the league's six teams.

"We are negotiating with him now," Lindsay said about the player who did not contribute. He was unidentified.

Clarence Campbell, league president, said in Montreal Lindsay's "statement represents about the finest public relations tribute which the NHL could hope to have from its players."

Lindsay said "we don't have any grievances. We just felt we should have an organization of this kind."

Conn Smythe, president of the Toronto Maple Leafs, said the association "might be a good thing" in helping younger athletes prepare for the future when their earning power is less.

Other teams officials asked to comment on the association said they had heard about the association but knew nothing more about it. Even Lindsay said "this association will be news to the owners."

Lindsay said the association was organized to "promote, foster and protect the best interests of the National Hockey League players."

Lindsay said the law firm of J. Norman Lewis and Milton W. Mound would represent the association. Lewis also represents the Major League Baseball players' Assn., which recently won from baseball owners an improved pension plan.

"We're not looking for any trouble," Lindsay said. "We just want to make playing in the league more attractive."

In addition to Lindsay, officers elected for two year terms included:

Doug Harvey, Montreal Canadiens, first vice president; Fern Flamen, Boston Bruins, second vice president; Gus Mortson, Chicago Black Hawks, third vice president; Jim Thomson, Toronto Maple Leafs, secretary; and Bill Gadsby, New York Rangers, treasurer.

Tom Manning Won't Air Indian Games

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Indians and radio station WERE today were looking for a sportscaster to help with the play-by-play broadcasts of all Cleveland baseball games this season.

Tom Manning, who was signed recently to work with Jimmy Dudley on the broadcasts again this year, announced Monday that he was giving up the assignment. He said his action was necessitated by an ear infection that makes travel by air uncomfortable.

REIDAR FLIGHT — Reidar Ullevalseter seems to have found an opening in the trees for his flight during ski jumping contest at Snoqualmie Pass, Wash.

Your Income Tax Primer

Federal Filing Deadline Is April 15 But There's No Law Against Being Early

By RICHARD A. MULLENS
(First of a series)

The first step in filling out a tax return is to decide which form to use.

This year, as in the past, there is the wage earner's form, called Form 1040A, printed on a check-sized card and the 4-page letter-sized form, called Form 1040.

Form 1040 can be used in one of two ways:

1. By using the tax table in the back of the official instructions which gives your tax without having to figure your deductions or exemptions.
2. By computing your own tax using the tax computations schedule on page 2 of the return.

EVERY TAXPAYER CAN, if he chooses, use the more complicated Form 1040. Most taxpayers are eligible to use the simple Form 1040A.

Before you can wisely decide which form to use, you should know:

1. What income you must report.
2. What deductions you are entitled to.
3. What credits you can claim.

Succeeding articles in NEA's Income Tax Primer will show you how to determine your income, deductions and credits.

Every year many taxpayers fail to take advantage of all the tax breaks to which they may be entitled.

Any taxpayer who was married on Dec. 31, 1956, can file a joint return with his or her spouse. In almost all cases, it is advantageous for married persons to file joint returns.

IF, HOWEVER, both spouses have substantial incomes and one has large capital losses or medical expenses, separate returns might give a lower tax than a joint return. The best way to tell in such a case is to compute your tax both ways and then use the cheaper method.

If your husband or wife died during 1956, you are considered married for the entire year and may file a joint return provided, of course, that you report both your income and the income of your deceased spouse.

Any widow or widower whose spouse died in 1954 or 1955 can also compute the tax for 1956 as if he or she were filing a joint return provided:

1. He or she has not remarried before Jan. 1, 1957.
2. He or she supports a child or step-child in his or her home, and
3. He or she was entitled to file a joint return in the year of the spouse's death.

THIS TAX BREAK is designed to help the surviving spouse in the difficult early years following the death of the husband or wife. It cannot be claimed on Form 1040A.

'Head of Household' Test

ANSWER the following questions and then compare your answers with the answer chart:

Questions	Answers	Explanations
1. Did you furnish more than half the cost of maintaining the home where you lived in 1956?	Yes—No	Include in the cost, property taxes, mortgage interest, rent, utility charges, upkeep and repair, property insurance and food consumed at your home. Do not count clothing, education, life insurance and transportation.
2. Did you have living with you in the home any relative described in (a) or (b) of the explanation?	Yes—No	(a) Your child (natural or adopted), a grandchild, or a stepchild. If such a child is unmarried, it doesn't matter if he has income of $600 or more, or if you don't contribute more than half his support. If he is married, he must be your dependent. (b) Any other relative who is your dependent. Do not count an unrelated person living with you even though he may be your dependent. Also do not count a dependent you claim under a multiple support agreement as described in Article 3.
3. Did the relative described in 2 above live with you during 1956 or up to the date of his or her death except for temporary absences?	Yes—No	A relative at college is considered temporarily absent from your home if he lives with you during vacations.
4. Did you furnish more than half the cost of any home in which either your dependent mother or father lived during 1956?	Yes—No
5. Were you a non-resident alien any time during 1956?	Yes—No

ANSWERS: You qualify as the head of household if you answered 4 "yes" and 5 "no," regardless of what your answers to the first 3 questions were. If you answered 4 "no," then you qualify only if your answer to 5 is "no" and answers to the first 3 questions are "yes."

so do not use this form if you are entitled to this tax benefit.

Except for the surviving spouse described above, any person who was unmarried on Dec. 31, 1956, is not entitled to file a joint return.

However, some unmarried persons qualify as the "head of household" and are entitled to use a special tax table which gives about half the tax break given to those who file joint returns.

To determine whether you qualify as the head of household, answer the questions in the box printed with this article and then compare your answers with the answer chart.

You cannot get the benefit of the reduced "head of household" rate if you file on Form 1040A. Use Form 1040 if you are a head of household.

IT IS ALWAYS advisable to fill out the return well before the deadline. Then if you have a refund coming, you can file early and stand a better chance of getting your money back quickly. Or if it turns out that you owe more tax, you have time to arrange for payment before the deadline of April 15.

Every citizen regardless of where he is living and everyone else residing in the United States must file a tax return if his answer to one or more of the following questions is "Yes":

1. If you were 65 or over on Dec. 31, 1956, did you have income of $1,200 or more? Yes—No—
2. If you were under 65 on Dec. 31, 1956, did you have income of $600 or more? Yes—No—
3. If you were a self-employed person subject to social security tax, did you have net earnings from self-employment of $400 or more? Yes—No—
